In fare note (as seen in the above example), each VAB fare type has a “family” description to which it belongs to. Description is added to the displayed conditions.

1.4 Fare Families Description – FQF.

FQF is a new functionality relevant to AAFF.

FQF displays carrier’s specific criteria for each fare, based on fare conditions and services (attributes) assigned to respective fare family. Attributes are sorted in pre-defined order as: fee service (included), not eligible for purchase (not offered) or chargeable service (offered at charge).

FQF can be used as follow-up entry after FQD or FQP or any pricing transaction e.g. FXP, FXX, FXB etc. Can also be used as stand-alone entry.

FQF3	Display of the fare attributes for the fare line number 3; must be used as follow-up after FQD or FQP or any pricing transaction e.g. FXP, FXX, FXB etc.
FQFSZZKIV/ALO/ECOSAVER	Display of the fare attributes descriptions as stand-alone transaction based on city pair, carrier and fare family name.
FQFSZZKIV/ALO/ECOSTAND-KIVSZZ/ALO/ECOFLEX – Display of attributes for ECONOMY STANDARD fare family on the routing SZZKIV and ECONOMY FLEX on return direction KIVSZZ. The entry shown in this format is completely independent from any other transactions.

System output returns attributes for given fare family according to the below shown format:

1.7 List of upsell propositions (upsell panel) – FXY.

FXY can be used for PNR pricing with at least one air segment.

The upsell transaction returns the lowest available fare in the lowest fare family and maximum six propositions which are successive upgrades per bound of the lowest applicable fares in next higher fare families.

FXY facilitates the choice of the most appropriate fare, but not necessarily the cheapest one, according to passenger's needs and expectations in terms of included attributes and/or offered services.

Note: FXY entry does not create a TST.

FXY/FFH	Returns in output homogenous propositions within one fare family.
FXY	If applicable after FXB entry, it returns different higher propositions within various fare families and its VAB combinations.
FXU4	When preceded by FXY display, the transaction allows to select the fare from the list of fares. Change of RBD (if needed) or a TST creation is also possible by use of this entry.

Example:

```
